IMPROVING QUALITY OF LIFE - BOSTON/HUTCHINSON CONNECTION

The iC4K delivers doctor prescribed media that brings joy and cognitive improvement

Hutchinson, Kansas, January 2, 2018 – Almont Studios of Boston, Massachusetts, has opened a new 10,000 sq. ft. facility in Hutchinson, Kansas, to manufacture the iC4K technology platform and create custom individualized media content for users with cognitive impairment and anxiety concerns.

“It has been a joy collaborating with extraordinary doctors and other professionals from Hutchinson and Wichita. We have brought our interactive technology developed in Boston to Kansas to improve the quality of life for my mother and people like her with anxiety and cognitive issues.” - G. Almont Green, President of Almont Studios

The iC4K display is custom designed as large as possible for the install location (up to video wall size). Personal photographs related specifically to each user are prepared each month to engage and redirect anxiety. Details in the imagery provide content for use as part of a cognitive exercise regimen to aid memory. Over 200 different cognitive exercises can be incorporated as part of a user program designed to be motivational and enjoyable. Each system can have multiple user programs, each privately accessed.

“I just love looking at old family photographs and talking about them. I turn the knob to look at photos and push the button to see what’s new. Sometimes it reminds me to read a scripture or to watch and imitate my son doing a fun exercise. There is always something to see and explore.” Juanita Green, Mother and iC4K user

In collaboration with medical professionals, the staff at Almont Studios interview and select photographs and items for scanning, editing and programming onto the iC4K. Audio and video segments are also used where appropriate. The iC4K is available on a subscription basis with content updated and changed regularly. Various options and attachments are under development extending the capabilities of the system to assist with diagnostic information for the user’s doctors as well as gathering data helpful for care facilities, doctors and medical professionals.
